UNDERSTANDING ESG: THE KEY QUESTIONS EVERY ORGANISATION FACES

Sustainability has shifted from a voluntary initiative to a core business requirement. Expectations from regulators, investors, customers and employees continue to rise, and organisations are increasingly judged by the credibility of their actions, the transparency of their reporting and the strength of their governance. Those that respond early build trust, reduce risk exposure and position themselves for long-term resilience and growth.

Yet many organisations still face fundamental questions:

Where do we begin?

Which frameworks should we adopt?

How do we measure impact?

What does credible sustainability reporting look like?

This programme cuts through the complexity with a structured, practical approach that helps participants understand ESG, interpret frameworks and translate intent into meaningful action.

Ultimately, ESG is about making better decisions — decisions that strengthen organisational performance, support responsible growth and prepare teams for a future where sustainability capability is essential. This course equips participants with the clarity, tools and confidence to contribute to their organisation's ESG journey in a practical and impactful way.

YOUR COURSE DIRECTOR

RODZIAH ADROS YAHYA MSc., BBA.

ESG, Sustainability & Governance Specialist.

Rodziah Adros Yahya is a seasoned corporate trainer with over 25 years of professional experience, including two decades at PETRONAS, where she developed deep expertise in finance, strategic planning, enterprise risk and governance. Her strong corporate foundation enables her to connect

ESG and sustainability principles directly to real organisational challenges and decision-making contexts.

She holds an MSc. in Finance and a Bachelor of Business Administration from the University of Michigan. During her corporate career, Rodziah served in senior leadership roles including Senior Manager for Portfolio Risk and Senior Manager for Corporate Strategic Planning, where she evaluated major initiatives, conducted enterprise-wide risk assessments and advised senior leadership and board-level committees. She also contributed to organisational capability development as a Skill Group Trainer, delivering programmes in treasury, financial risk management and governance.

Rodziah is certified in Sustainability & Climate Risk (SCR®) by the Global Association of Risk Professionals (GARP), reinforcing her expertise in climate-related risk, ESG integration and sustainability reporting. Her familiarity with key frameworks — including GRI, SASB, TCFD, TNFD and ISO 31000 — enables her to guide organisations through materiality assessments, data structuring and reporting readiness.

Known for her clear and practical approach, Rodziah simplifies complex ESG concepts and equips participants with tools they can apply immediately. She brings a balanced, real-world perspective that supports organisations in building credible, decision-useful and impactful ESG capability.
